A Community Shops for a Cause

Four times a year, hundreds of bargain-hunting early birds gather in Santa Ana for what has become a highly anticipated shopping frenzy for a great cause. WHW's Quarterly Saturday Sale is just one of the fundraising efforts of Women Helping Women/Men2Work, an Orange County nonprofit organization that provides employment support services to men, women and teens in need to help them get and keep a good job and become economically independent.

In a four hour window from 8:00 am to 12:00 pm, WHW, with the help of a host of community and corporate volunteers, will sell thousands of clothing items and accessories, priced from $1 to $5 each generating as much as $14,000 in funding, which helps the organization provide services at no charge to challenged job seekers and non-profit partners.

WHW's next Quarterly Saturday Sale will be held on January 31st and shoppers will start lining up before 7:00 am for the opportunity to purchase tops, pants, jeans, skirts, dresses, sweaters, jackets, shoes, jewelry, handbags and other accessories for men and women at rock bottom prices.
